PUBLIC MEETING!

The political and personal friends of our distinguished fellow-citizen,

HON. JAMES GUTHRIE. Are invited to meet at

DEMOCRATIC HALL,

MONDAY EVENING.

We see a long varn in the organ about frauds in Philadelphia, which is copied from a Freesoil paper of that city. It is the old story again of frauds, frauds! The organ is very eager to show that the Abolition party of Pennsylvania was beaten by fraudulent voting; and what is worse, they were beaten by foreigners. The vague statements of the Freesoil Abolition paper are just of the sort that commonly appear in such quarters. They, and the organ here, had better attend to the definite charges of fraud at Washington, and the appalling rasealities perpetrated on the right of suffrage here. and in Baltimore, and New Orleans. The peoale of this city have had some bloody experi ence on this subject, and it is nothing short of Satanic impudence to scribble about frauds mirror, in which their own ugly features are the promineut objects. They see reflected a vast complicated fraudulent machinery of their own make, and they raise the squall of fraud, fraud! They have no hope of beating the Democratic party by an open, straightforward, manly course. They must resort to secreey, and oaths, and signs, and grips. They must raise a vast sum and watch them, and have a treasury replenished by a vest scheme of taxation. Is it not rich to hear such a party talk about frauds? We shall have Brigham Young and his wives preaching chastily presently, and rolling up their eyes at licentiousness. It used to be a vice for parties to concoct their schemes secretly, and to secure votes by the force of party despotism. Such things were sometimes done; but the suspected felt bound to conceal or deny their complicity in such deeds, and all parties disowned them, and denounced them. So, individuals have been guiltv of vile licentiousness; but they always tried to conceal or deny it. They were compelled to pay that much respect to virtue. Know-Nothingism, however, has sanctified the mean vice of party despotism, by adopting it as a basis of their organization. Oaths to secreey and concealment are made a party law-a party merit. They actually enacted a vice into a party law, and seemed proud of it. So Brigham Young har clevated a social abomination into a religto as duty, and glories over the shame. And the eaid Brigham Young can rail at the licentious-

All for the cause, nothing for men The contest this summer is of the highest importance, and it will be mortifying to the Democ racy of the State, if we should lose a district by the reckless rivalry of different aspirants.

It will be recollected that Slough, of Cincinnati, received the certificate of his success at the late special election in that city. He to present the certificate or take his seat. The Letter of Judge Lecompte.

Washington, Feb. 24, 1857. In a letter from Judge Lecompte, dated Jan uary 9, to Attorney-General Cushing, he says he has too much self-respect to respond to any intimation unfavorable to either his official or personal conduct, unless requested by the Pres ident to do so. The amazing information that he was to be removed disabused him of that full confidence upon which he had relied as the last security against injustice, censure, and con demuation without a hearing, which he would not ask to be redressed. Never having felt temptation to contribute to peace by pandering to the popular spirit before the appointment of Gov. Geary, he should regard his advent in the Territory as a woeful curse to the land. He accuses Gov. Geary of misrepresenting facts, denies that the peace of Kansas was in the slightest degree perilled by his official acts, and brands as grossly talse the statements that he had refused to release free State men on bail. He avows he will conscientiously discharge his duty, uncontrolled by the President or Gov.

MELANCHOLY Mission .- By a private dispatch we learn that Judge Kane, the father of Dr. Kane, the Aretic explorer, left Pittsburg yesterday morning, accompanied by one of his sons, for the purpose of meeting the remains of the deceased Doctor at Louisville. He will take passage down this morning, upon the Telegraph No. 3, for that purpose. We are much pleased to learn that the managers of the railroad from l'ittsburg to this city, and of the mail-buat Louisville, have extended the courtesies within Louisville, have extended party. their province to the bereaved party. Washington, Feb. 27. SENATE.—The Senate remained in session till after 1 o'clock this morning. the tariff a long debate was had, during which Mr. Brodhead earnestly protested against this system of midnight legislation on a great interest of the country. The vote by which Adams' substitute had been adopted was reconsidered, and then rejected by a tie vote. Mr. Hunter offered a substitute, reducing the early as 7 p. M., to insure insertion.

rates on the present tariff 20 per cent.

An amendment was adopted placing raw wool N s. LONG at 23 per eent.; that worth twenty cents or less Mr. Hunter's substitute was adopted-33

The House bill, thus amended, was passed at twenty minutes past 1 o'clock. When the Senate adjourned.

Washington, Feb. 27. The Senate took up and passed twenty-fiveprivate bills, including one permitting com mander Hartstein and others to accept certain tokens of acknowledgement of their humane Freight Notice to Merchants and Shippers. services from the British Government. Mr. Adams presented the credentials of Jefferson Davis, elected U. S. Senator from

Mr. Stanton replied that the House could The resolution of Purviance was rejected-

82 against 109. Mr. Gilbert rose to speak and members gathered in front of him Mr. Gilbert remarked that he rose with an unusual degree of emotion, but he felt in his own conscience that he was not condemned. Although he had been placed thus before this assembly, and his name spread broadcast over the land, he was convinced of his own innocence. He stood here void allense. The volume of testimony regarding himself had been commented on by others, and he could add no weight to what had been said. He abmitted to gentlemen, men of intelligence and lawyers, whether, on such evidence sitting as a jury, would enforce judgment in a On that testimony he had been arraigned and harges preferred against him, which, if true. could affix upon his name an enduring stigm His position in life was well known, and he chalenged any man to say aught against his per-conal or official conduct. If any member of this ody felt that he had been injured by associa tion with him, let him rise and say so. He had also read the allegation with perbet confidence that his statement under oath would receive some legree of credit. He referred to matters conceted with this case to show it had not been his intention or desire to delay the action of the ommittee, and alluded to the confidence reposed in him by his constituency. If he had been that corrupt and obnoxious man represented, very likely it would be known where he was best known. Forty years had he ived there, and until the present, never had such a charge been laid at his door. He did not fear the result. Those dearest to him said: Sustain your dignity, let the result be as it may; do no mean act, and if your pursuers follow you there. our friends will take eare of you at home. He has two daughters growing up.

It he was alone in the world, he should feel ree as air, but he knew his responsibility. The attempt to fix a stigma on his good name was nprecedented. He charged the House with gross injustice towards him, his family, friends, instituents, and the world, in depriving a fair hearing. He felt confident that
